

11/04/13 – CIRT Past Chairman Bob Alger Elected to the National Academy of Construction

The National Academy of Construction (NAC) has elected Robert E. Alger, President and CEO of The Lane Construction Corporation, as a new member in its 2013 class. He was inducted October 20 at the NAC Annual Meeting in Scottsdale, Arizona. The 2013 class includes 25 new inductees. More than 250 industry leaders were considered for the NAC's rigorous nomination and election process.

Alger, who served as Chairman of the Construction Industry Round Table (CIRT) from 2011 – 2012 and joined Lane in 1979 after graduating from Penn State University, was recognized by the NAC for his leadership both at one of the country's top civil construction corporations and in the construction industry. His combination of business acumen and standard of excellence has contributed to Lane's revenues increasing from $360 million in 2001, when he became its president and CEO, to more than $1.2 billion in 2012. Lane is included in ENR's "Top 400 Contractors" list, and has grown in geographic influence, with field offices in 15 states and the District of Columbia.

Read the full press release from NAC here.